RIPPLE CREEK STRIKE IS OFF

WESTERN FEDERATION HAD TO GIVE UP.

ELD OUT FOR FOUR YEARS

OPES TO SEND GOLDFIELD MINERS BACK.

y They Will Never Allow Union to Gain Another Foothold in the District—Trouble Started in Colorado City Five Years Ago.

With the probability of complete ermination in the Goldfield, Nev., trict, staring them in the face, the estern Federation of Miners is making an attempt to reopen some of eir former stamping grounds as an dium to which the fugitives from vada may flee. As a result the anincement was made in Denver yesday by W. D. Haywood, secretary the Western Federation of Miners, that the strike in the Cripple eek district, declared on August 1903, has been officially declared

While it is generally recognized ong mining men that this action f have no effect on the present ditions in the Cripple Creek district, it is of advantage to the members of the Federation, in that they now go to the district and apply work without fear of being classed scabs."

Mine Owners Stand Pat.

According to prominent mine owners of this city, the action of Haywood and his associates is significant the fact that the Federation realizes that it has been forced to retreat to its last ditch, having been out of several states, and the n now hung to find a resting place some of its former haunts, with possible view of reestablishing itself and again raising a lighting army. That it will be disappointed this is evident from the recent ision of the Mine Owners association of the Cripple Creek district to ain the card system and enforce igorously. The operators are firm their contention that the camp is e without the Federation, and also e in the determination never to w the camp to again come under control of that organization."

prominent mine owner said last ht:

"We have never had cause to re having driven the Federation n the district, and the mine owners will see to it that it never gets ooehold again. The years of poverty and high-handed misdeeds previous to the strike, and the reign of rchy and outrage resulting in the of scores of lives during the ggle, will never be erased from memories of the best men of the rict and state, and rather than the Federation another chance repeat its outrages, every mine in camp would be closed down. But, ng as the card system is enforced e will be no danger of this, and system is certainly to be retained obeyed to the letter."

History of the Strike.

he strike which the Western Federation officially declared off yesterday will go down in history as one the most famous and bloodiest licts between labor and capital in country. The strike was called August 10, 1903, and has been on since, although it was practically ed with the driving of the Western Federation of Miners from the ple Creek district in 1904. The ble grew out of the strike in the rado City mills, which began in ruary, 1903, and which finally inated in the declaring by the tive board of the Western Federation of a sympathetic strike ughout the entire Cripple Creek rict. This order took effect in ust, 1903, and in October, Governor Peabody declared the district under martial law and stationed several panies of militia in the camp.

Many Lawless Acts.

requent acts of lawlessness were mitted during the winter, the most ble of which were the Independence mine disaster, the Vindicator ion and the attempt to wreck Altman & Cripple Creek train. ike of the strike came on June 6, when the explosion of a bomb ked the Independence depot and 1 14 nonunion men. DETERMINED TO WIPE OUT UNION

GOLDFIELD MINE OWNERS ISSUE ULTIMATUM.

BIG REDUCTION IN WAGES

MINERS ARE CUT FROM $5 TO $4 A DAY.

MUST SIGN AN AGREEMENT

Men Belonging to Local Union or Associated With W. F. of M. in Any Way Can Not Secure Employment—Reduction in Living Demanded.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Dec. 9. Late this afternoon the Goldfield Mine Owners association issued its ultimatum to the miners in Goldfield in the shape of a set of resolutions adopted at the meeting which had been in progress all day. The resolutions embody the new scale of wages to be in vogue from this time on, showing a lowering of the scale of about 20 per cent. The resolutions adopted are as follows:

Resolved, That the mines of this district reopen upon a wage scale to be agreed to at this meeting.

Resolved, That the following scale of wages be adopted as the scale to be paid in the Goldfield mining district, by all operators, members of this association:

Miners, $4 from $5; machine men, $4 from $5; chuck tenders, $3.50 from $5; muckers, $3.75 from $5; carmen, $3.75 from $5; pumpmen, $3.50 from $5; timber men, $4.50 from $5; carpenters, $5 from $5; machinists, $5 from $6; electricians, $5 from $6; electricians, $5 from $7; blacksmiths, $5.50 from $6; tool sharpeners, $5 from $6; blacksmiths' helpers, $4 from $5; surface laborers, $3.50 from $4; amalgamators, $4.50 from $5; sampermen, $4 from $5; laborers, $3.50 from $4.

Must Sign Agreement.

Resolved, That no member of this association employ in or around his mine or around his mill any member of Goldfield local union No. 220 of the Western Federation of Miners, or of any union connected with or affiliated with said Western Federation of Miners, and that all men hereafter employed by any member of this association or around his mine or mill be required, as a condition of his employment to sign a written contract which contains an agreement that the miner is not now and will not be during the time he is working, become a member of the Goldfield Miners union No. 220 of the Western Federation of Miners, or of a union in Goldfield or elsewhere that is directly or indirectly affiliated with or has any connection of any kind, nature or description with said Western Federation of Miners.

Resolved, That the mines of the Goldfield mining district resume operations at 7 a. m. on Thursday, December 12, 1907, with men who agree to the foregoing conditions, and that all old employes of the members of this association be given the preference at all mines, providing such employes present their applications either at the office of this association or the mines formerly employing them before 7 a. m. of Thursday, December 12, 1907, and that the offices of this association and said mines be open for the purpose of receiving said applications from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. of each day until said time.

To Reduce Cost of Living.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this association that the cost of living in Goldfield mining district be reduced at least 20 per cent from what it now is, and unless this be done within a reasonable time, this association will construct and operate a general merchandise store or stores and boarding houses that will guarantee to the men employed in and around the mines and mills a reduction to this or greater amount.

The Goldfield Mine Operators association also announced that if there is not a sufficient number of men willing to go to work upon terms of the resolutions before December 12, it will employ men from such sources as it may be able to secure them.

The executive committee of the Goldfield Miners union has been in session nearly all day, but no statement has been issued in answer to the one sent out by the mine owners, the contents of which had been anticipated by the miners.

It is the belief of members of the union, expressed today, on the issuance of the owners statement, that no attempt will be made by the owners to do more than clear the mines of the water that has accumulated in them during the present week. Whether an attempt will be made to prevent this much being done is something that cannot be determined tonight but the men say positively that no violence will be resorted to and no disturbance made on Thursday morning, when the mines are to be reopened.

Whether the union will undertake to follow negotiations with the mine owners association in an attempt to bring about some sort of a compromise before Thursday is something that has not yet been decided by the executive committee of the union.

A. F. of L. Unaffected.

Conservative men here not connected with either the owners or miners organizations, are of the opinion that a settlement may yet be reached. It is not that an attempt will be made to organize here a new union to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, with which the mine owners have already intimated they will be willing to enter into an agreement. The nucleus of such a new union today is

KING GUSTAVE OF SWEDEN.
New Monarch Has Been the Acting Head of the Government Ever Since the Last Illness of the Late King Oscar—Is Enthusiastic Tennis Player and the Champion of Sweden.

RECEIVES HOMAGE OF TROOPS

King Gustave V., New Monarch of Sweden, Addresses Soldiers, Who Surround Palace.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 9.—King Gustave V. at noon today received the homage of the troops, who were drawn up in a semicircle around the palace. It was a splendid and solemn spectacle. The king addressed the troops briefly, saying that it was his firm conviction that they would always be ready to follow him when the welfare of the country required them to do so.

The funeral of the late king is expected to be held December 19. Only the reigning sovereign of Sweden, among the crowned heads, is likely to attend, the king of Denmark and others sending representatives. The dowager queen, Sophia, has decided to live in retirement at Castle Orikshalm.

SPRINGS MAY GET NINE

WESTERN LEAGUE LIKELY TO PLACE TEAM HERE.

Definite Movement on Foot to Give Fans Another Chance to See Professional Ball.

Colorado Springs will have a baseball team in the Western league next season if negotiations that have been begun by prominent business men in this city are successful. Ever since the announcement was made last fall that the league was to be expanded from a six-club to an eight-club circuit, there have been rumors that one of the two additional clubs might be placed in this city.

Until lately there has been no definite move on the part of Colorado Springs people to back a club. Within the last few weeks, however, prominent business men of the city have been giving the matter consideration, and have decided to go after the franchise if it can be secured on reasonable terms. These men have been working through E. W. Dickerson, sporting editor of the Denver News, and one of the leading baseball men in the west, and he has expressed the opinion that with the proper backing and organization, a club can be placed in this city. In case a franchise is secured, it is said that Manager Wheeler of last year's Denver team, may be secured to take charge of the team here.

Plan New Ball Park.

The local business men who are willing to back the club have a site for a ball park, outside of the city limits under consideration, and in case the franchise is secured, will immediately set to work putting the grounds in shape for the opening of the league season in this city in April.

The cities which at present compose the West[illegible] are Denver, Pueblo, Des Moines, Sioux City, Lincoln and Omaha. Colorado Springs, the two additional cities are Kansas City, Kan., and St. Joseph, Mo., may be a member of the [illegible]. It is believed, however, that Colorado Springs is as logical a town, if not more so, than either of these cities. With the three towns at the western end of the circuit, not only could the trips be materially shaved, but expenses of the clubs in travel could be lessened. That Colorado Springs is a good ball town was demonstrated during the season of 1907 when the average daily attendance was between 1,000 and 2,000 and while the town was one of the best payers in the league. The fact that the town is flooded with tourists [illegible]

MONEY PROBLEM APPROACHED

M'LAURIN HAS PLAN TO PREVENT ANOTHER CRISIS.

TREASURY RELIEF IS SCHEME

Persons Owning Bonds Should Receive Notes in Return; Persons Owning Cotton Should Be Given Treasury Notes to Extent of 70 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. The Senate was in session a little more than an hour today and at 1:10 o'clock adjourned until tomorrow.

Little business was transacted beyond the introduction of bills. The resolutions of Senators Clay and Culberson, calling upon the Secretary of the treasury for information concerning the recent bond issues of the government came up, but in the absence of Senator Aldrich their consideration was postponed until another day.

The House adjourned at 1:10 o'clock until Thursday without transacting any business beyond the introduction of bills. It was stated authoritatively that the House committees will not be announced until next week.

Bills Introduced in Senate.

In the Senate, bills introduced included the following:

By Platt of New York—For national supervision of corporations, including a national bureau of incorporations.

By McLaurin—To relieve the present money stringency and prevent its recurrence. It permits persons owning any bonds of the United States to deposit them in the treasury and receive notes to an amount equaling their par value. It is provided that until February 1909, persons owning one or more bales of cotton may deposit it in a depository designated by the secretary of the treasury and receive treasury notes to the extent of 70 per cent of [illegible]

Tillman Wants to Know.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Senator Tillman introduced a resolution directing the committee on finance to investigate the recent proceedings of the secretary of the treasury in the matter of the issue of bonds, and to make such a report concerning financial legislation as may be necessary. The resolutions were presented in two parts, the first dealing with the operations of the secretary of the treasury and the second with certain rules of the Senate. Both were referred to the committee on finance.

The first of the resolutions directs the committee on finance to investigate and report to the senate as follows:

First—Whether the issue of certificates of indebtedness bearing 2 per cent interest and not added were authorized by the secretary of the treasury Nov. 15, 1907, save for the purpose of borrowing money "for the most urgent expenditures" as provided by section 3 of the act approved June 13, 1898, and if not, whether there is any warrant of law for the issue of such certificates.

Second, whether the issue of $50,000,000 of bonds of the Panama canal loan, bids for which were called for by the secretary of the treasury on Nov.

ORDINANCE IS INVALID

DE MASTERS SCORES VICTORY IN CASE AGAINST CITY.

Price Advises Council Not to Appeal Case and Suggests Another Course of Action.

That the ordinance relating to the granting of licenses to livery stables is invalid, and that the City Council can not compel A. D. DeMasters to close his livery stable on North Tejon street, is the substance of a decision handed down by Judge Robert Kerr, in the county court, yesterday, in the case of the city vs. A. D. DeMasters. The ordinance delegated to the Mayor the power to grant the license at his discretion, and this, according to the decision, is illegal on the ground that it conferred a power which might have a loophole for discrimination in [illegible] The city was given 30 days in which to appeal the case, but this will not be done, according to advice given the Council at its special session last night, in response to a question from President C. T. Fertig, by City Attorney W. B. Price.

Advises Against Appeal.

Mr. Price advised against an appeal, saying that several decisions rendered in this state contain Judge Kerr's judgment, and he had no doubt that the supreme court would sustain the decision. Mr. Price explained that the meaning of the decision in plain terms is that this particular ordinance is invalid, as the Council has no power to delegate to the Mayor the discretionary power to grant or withhold a license, and the Council has not the power to withhold a license from any particular applicant in a legitimate business.

Suggests Course of Action.

According to the city attorney, the only relief possible for the citizens in the neighborhood, who complain that the stable is a nuisance, is for them to go into court and prove that it is a nuisance. If they can do that to the satisfaction of the court, the nuisance can be abated by a writ of mandamus from the court. The city has had similar trouble with the carpet cleaning establishment in the south end of town, and Mr. Price stated that the decision would no doubt rule in this case as in the DeMasters case. It was suggested that an appeal to the supreme court of the state might be taken, but Mr. Price advised against this action.

Several Similar Decisions.

There are several decisions on similar cases in this state," he said, "which undoubtedly sustain the decision rendered in the county court today. Outside of Colorado, as Judge Kerr noted, there are many decisions exactly the opposite. The city council of La Junta passed an ordinance that no one should peddle water without a license and then refused to grant any license for water peddling. A resident [illegible] water [illegible]

STOESSEL WILL SOON KNOW FATE

FINAL STAGE OF COURT-MARTIAL BEGINS TODAY.

GENERAL'S LIFE IN BALANCE

SIEGE OF PORT ARTHUR WILL BE REVIEWED.

IS IN A PITIABLE CONDITION

Russian Officer Has Already Suffered Two Paralytic Strokes Since Fall of Fortress—Generals Fook and Reiss Co-defendants.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 9.—The final stage of the court-martial of Lieutenant General Stoessel will begin in this city tomorrow. There have been protracted delays in taking the testimony in the case, but now the material is in order and proceedings will go ahead rapidly.

General Stoessel is accused of having surrendered the fortress at Port Arthur before he had exhausted all the resources of defense. The punishment for this, under the Russian code, is death. He is to be tried also on the charge of lacking initiative and with having exceeded his power.

General Fook and General Reiss are codefendants with him. The first is accused of having despited the surrender of the fortress and the second with having executed the order of surrender. General Meyrnett, General Stoessel's most bitter enemy, is to be tried on a minor count.

The court will be composed of nine generals under the presidency of Vice Admiral Doubassoff. It will include Generals Kuropatkin, Bilderling, Mytoff and others. General Garsky will be judge advocate. General Stoessel will be defended by Deputy Syrtlanoff and Colonel Velianoff. The trial is exciting the most intense interest in army circles.

On Verge of Collapse.

General Stoessel is in a pitiable state of nervousness over the final hearing of his case and the doctors are apprehensive of the effect upon the veteran officer, who has suffered two paralytic strokes since the fall of the fortress.

The general told the representative of the Associated Press today that he was glad that the trial, after so many delays, was at last coming to a close. He expects to be fully rehabilitated.

The indictments against Generals Stoessel, Reiss, Fook and Smyrnoff are full of side lights on the final stages of the siege of the fortress and on the confusion which existed in the directions of the defense, owing to the ambiguous position of General Smyrnoff. Nominally, this general held the chief command of the fortress, but actually he was supplanted by General Stoessel, who was little more than the mouthpiece of General Fook.

Before communication with Port Arthur was finally cut off, General Kuropatkin both telegraphed and wrote to General Stoessel, instructing him to hand over the command of the fortress to Smyrnoff and rejoin the Manchurian army. General Stoessel did not follow these instructions. On the contrary, he remained at Port Arthur and arrogated to himself the supreme authority.

Reduced to Severe Straits.

General Fook is considered to be responsible for the evacuation of vitally important forts between December 18 and January 1, and the evidence on this point is incontrovertible. The indictments give a terribly graphic description of the straits the defending forces were reduced to by shell and little thin rifles and hand grenades. The losses were enormous, on one position alone the casualties exceeding 800 in a single day, and on another point, but 20 survived from a detachment of over 300 men. Nevertheless, neither General Gorbatovsky nor General Smyrnoff admitted the possibility of voluntarily evacuating the defenses, and they both bitterly upbraided General Fook when they heard of his order to do so.

The last military council before the capitulation was held at Port Arthur on the evening of December 20. The council voted 13 to three in favor of The poultry show will open this morning, and for the remainder of the week the large store room in the Dorr-Graff building, at 118 North Tejon street, will be given over to the most aristocratic of the feathered flocks of Colorado. Several of the roostery have taken to automobiles and advertise the show, and as a result, it is expected to be one of the largest crowds in the history of local poultry exhibitions.

Judge W. C. Ellison of Minneapolis will begin scoring this morning at 9 o'clock, and will make the awards in the various classes and of the various cups and prizes during the week. The show will be open to the public every day this week from 9 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening. The Pikes Peak Poultry association has extended an invitation to the residents of the Printers home to visit the show today, and to the pupils of the Deaf-Blind school for Saturday.

More Than 600 Entries.

Entries for the show have been coming in even better than had been anticipated, and when they finally closed yesterday, Secretary G. W. Veditz had received more than 600. Three large entries were received in yesterday's mail. One was of 20 Brown Leghorns and barred rocks from H. S. Garlinghouse of Canon City, and another of 17 of the same breeds from Thomas R. Wilson of Rocky Ford. A third of 14 birds of the same breed came from John Morris of Golden, who won the Robbins cup last year and also the cup at the Denver show for the best display of any variety. This means that the best Brown Leghorns in Colorado will be in the show.

Although eggs are selling at 40 cents a dozen at the stores, according to Mr. Veditz, those produced at the show are high-priced eggs—$4 a dozen.

"CHECKERS" MAKES BIG HIT

Play Is Bright, Snappy and Full of Go—Witnessed by a Small Audience.

The theater-going public may be saving its money for Christmas or for "The Blue Moon" at any rate, it has spent precious little on the attractions of the last week's programs. "Checkers" was played last night mostly to rows of empty seats, which means that the public, who usually occupies those seats missed a good thing. The play has been here before, but it is worth seeing again. It is bright, snappy and full of go, and the love story it tells is decidedly fascinating. An especially strong feature is the varied types of character that are depicted with rare fidelity—the fortune seekers at the Hot Springs hotel, the cracker box oracles, and other local celebrities in the Arkansas country town, the race track touts and hangers-on, all of whom are accurately and amusingly drawn.

Hans Roberts as Checkers comes pretty near one's ideal of the character. Quiet and self-possessed, shrewd, a born gambler, but withal as likable a chap as could be imagined. Dave Braham, Jr., as "Push" Miller, the tout, is a scarcely less capable actor, and his work is uniformly excellent. No better piece of character work than that of Joseph Wilkes as Andromeda Barlow, the crabbed, grasping old skinflint who runs the bank, has been seen here in a long time. The same may almost be said of the work of Robert Craig in the two widely different roles of the General and Bud Prendergast, the village loafer with the cackling laugh. Another good piece of work is that of George E. Merritt as Uncle Jerry. The part of Arthur Kendall is capably played by George Seyboll.

Stephanie Longfellow gives a satisfactory portrayal of Pert Barlow, the principal female part. Lydia Dickson, as Cynthy, the "poor white trash," maid of all work, is one of the best things in the show.

holding out to the last extremity. General Stoessel took no active part in the discussion, but Reiss, who recited a number of reasons for surrender, undoubtedly spoke on Stoessel's behalf.

Admiral Wirenius denounced General Reiss as a traitor. The same time General Stoessel sent his multi-augmented telegram to the emperor, beginning with the words: "Great sovereign, forgive us. We have done everything within human limits. Judge us mercifully."

General Reiss was given full power by General Stoessel in the final negotiations. Stoessel did not bid farewell to the troops when they marched out of the fortress after the surrender. He retained, for his own use, 10 of the 18 carts placed by the victors at the disposal of the Russian women in Port Arthur. His only defender, witnesses have affirmed, was for his own baggage.

Was Capitulation Justified?

At will be the duty of the court-martial to determine whether the capitulation of Port Arthur on January 1 was justified, according to Russian military codes and ethics. There were probably 17,000 fighting men left at the time of the surrender. The sick and wounded numbered about 15,000. There is evidence to prove that in the matter of provisions Port Arthur could easily have held out another month and the reserves of ammunition, both artillery and rifle, would have sufficed for even longer than this. The garrison had 200 effective guns when the fortress was surrendered.

The standpoint taken by Generals Stoessel, Reiss and Fook is that the fate of Port Arthur was sealed with the capture of the "Eagles Nest" and two other positions by the Japanese, that every point remaining in the hands of the Russians was exposed to the Japanese fire, and that the so-called second and third lines of defense were absolutely valueless.

Generals Stoessel, Reiss and Fook all possess the St. George's order for valor, which corresponds to the Victoria cross in the British army.

vember 18, 1907, was required to "defray the expenditures on said canal, there being at that time when both of these loans were made, upwards of $200,000,000 in the treasury for current expenditures."

Was Legislation Necessary.

Third, whether any legislation was necessary to protect the people and business interests of the country from the issue of unlawful money, if clearing house certificates are such, and to prevent the illegal increase of the public debt in time of peace.

The second series of resolutions directed the finance committee "to investigate and report to the senate as soon as practicable" on the following points:

First, whether clearing house certificates with which the country is now flooded have been issued under authority of law or contrary to the same.

Second, whether the issuing of such certificates by an association of banks, both state and national, and the use of the same as money subjects such certificates or notes to the tax of 10 per cent, provided in section 3412, U. S. revised statutes.

Third, whether it would be permissible under the law as it is, for an association of [illegible] to issue certificates in [illegible] wheat and tobacco, stored in such warehouses and elevators, and fully insured, to be used as money in marketing said crops in the same way as clearing house certificates are now used.

The resolutions went over.

Senator Culberson also called up his resolutions asking for information concerning the issue of $50,000,000 Panama canal bonds and the total number of banks in operation on December 1 and November 18, 1907, and the amount of public money on deposit in the banks of each state and territory on those dates. DETERMINED TO WIPE OUT UNION based on the wages paid at Tonopah, where the cost of living is conceded to be 20 per cent cheaper than in Goldfield. To cover this point, the Mine Owners association has agreed either to induce the merchants here to lower their prices or else to open general stores and boarding houses, where prices will be lower than at present.

The officers of the local miners union say they place little confidence in the statement of the Mine Owners association, and that such statements, which they characterize as "bluffs," have been issued before, and the promises in them not kept.

Reports of attempts at intimidation, threats of violence and even attempts to commit violence are being constantly heard tonight, but at union headquarters these are characterized as fakes, and in instances where personal encounters have occurred, the evidence obtainable is that the disturbances are caused by irresponsible parties, and that the union officials are endeavoring to prevent disorder and violence.

No Action Taken.

President Charles MacKinnon of the Goldfield Miners union said tonight that the executive committee was not holding a regular meeting today, and that it would not do so, nor would the union take any official action regarding the reduction in wages of the miners until tomorrow night, the time for holding the regular monthly meeting of the executive committee.

The troops are tonight patrolling the ground around the Consolidated and other prominent mines of the camp, as also are a large number of deputy constables, sworn in by Constable Claud Inman. It was learned tonight that an attempt will be made tomorrow morning to start work on the Mohawk Combination mine. No underground work will be attempted, but Manager Siebert states that he will work the dumps, beginning at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, and that he has men enough to handle the work. He has made no request for deputies or troops to guard his property or protect the workmen.

EVANS IN CHARGE

toy of the American people. This was assembly day for the fleet, which is to set sail next Monday and of the 16 powerful fighting machines, indeed to skirt the southern point of all America and inaugurate a new naval era in the Pacific ocean, there were but two laggards. These were the 16,000-ton Minnesota, flagship of Rear Admiral C. M. Thomas, commander of the second squadron of the fleet, and the Kentucky, whose paltry 11,525 tons relegated her to a position at the end of the armored column. The Kentucky also is the oldest vessel among the 16, having been laid down with her sister, the Kearsarge, in 1898, at the beginning of the war with Spain. Nine years ago is an ancient period in modern battleship construction, so great have been the strides in American naval architecture.

The Minnesota and the Kentucky are to be supported to drop anchor in Hampton Roads tomorrow, and then the historic fleet will be complete. The new Maine, which two short years ago was the flagship of the commander-in-chief, but is now thrown back to eleventh place in the list, came in today, making 14 battleships at another here.

Position of Ships.

The ships are disposed in two long lines, leading in a crescent, which begins just off the Old Point Comfort pier and points toward Norfolk. The Connecticut, which lies scarcely more than a stone's throw from the pier, heads the column nearest the shore. Next to her is the sister ship, the Louisiana, the champion hard-hitting, fast-firing vessel of her class, and then, in turn, come the Kansas and the Vermont, all registering 16,000 tons and belted with steel that is proof against high impregnable. These four vessels compose the first division of the first squadron and the personal targets of Rear Admiral Evans.

The second division in the first squadron is made up of the Georgia, Virginia, New Jersey and Rhode Island. The flag of Rear Admiral William H. Emery is command of the division, floats from the Georgia. It also bears two stars, but, in distinction from that of the commander-in-chief, the flag has a red field, the same being true of all of the three rear admirals, who have command of the divisions under Admiral Evans.

Both absentees from the fleet today were in the second squadron column. A vacant berth at the head of the line was left for the Minnesota, which is bound down the coast from the New York navy yard. The Minnesota was the last of the big vessels to dock at New York, and was given 48 hours' grace, under the orders to report in Hampton Roads not later than today. Awaiting the Minnesota in the second squadron are the Maine, Ohio and Missouri; of the third division of the fleet, and in the fourth divisions, are the Alabama, flagship of Rear Admiral Sperry; the Illinois and the Kearsarge. The Kentucky will complete this division and squadron when she arrives from Boston. Like the Minnesota, the Kentucky was repaired at the Norfolk navy yard, but was sent away to be docked and painted below the water line.

Present Notable Picture.

The two long lines of battleships flanked on either side by vessels of the auxiliary fleet, present a notable picture—and add one more impressive spectacle to the history of Virginia's far-famed roadstead, where the battle of the Monitor and the Merrimac thrilled the world and set a new standard for future navies to build by.

The crowds of sightseers from all parts of the country are assembled here to witness the final preparations and the departure of the fleet. The families of most of the officers are also among the visitors, and the week is to be crowded with social engagements of both formal and informal character, in which the principal function is to be a naval and military ball on the evening of Friday, December 13.

Admiral Evans arrived this morning from Washington, accompanied by Captain Ingersoll, his chief of staff, and Lieutenant Commander Chandler, his flag secretary. As his flag was broken out from the main truck when he repaired aboard the Connecticut, there were the customary salutes from the flagships of the various divisions, and Admirals Emery and Sperry were soon en route to the flagship to pay their respects. The commanding officer of the artillery stationed at Fort Monroe also paid his respects to the admiral.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 9.—J. Marshall Williams, for two years soloist with Sousa's band, and also for two years in grand opera in New York, died today at Chillicothe, Mo., after a long illness. He was born in England 45 years ago.

was fined. He appealed the case and was sustained by the supreme court of the state. A similar case happened in Denver where the city council undertook to compel a butcher to close his shop on the ground that it was undesirable in that neighborhood and constituted a nuisance. The man appealed the case and won his suit.

The matter of framing a new ordinance was referred to the ordinance committee and the city attorney.

Brief History of the Case.

The trouble between A. D. DeMasters and the city arose as the result of a protest from residents in the 1200 block on North Tejon street against the livery stable in that block on the ground that it constituted a nuisance. The Council refused to grant a license to DeMasters, who persisted in conducting his livery and was accordingly fined in the police court to the amount of $10 and costs. He appealed the case to the county court and also applied for a writ of mandamus to compel the Mayor to grant him a license. He was defeated in the latter suit by a judgment rendered last week by Judge Kerr, but was sustained in his appeal which involved the validity of the ordinance under which he was fined. The main point of the decision is to make plain the fact that while the City Council has the right to regulate any business by license, it has not the right to refuse a license to any particular individual who applies, provided he complies with the requirements of the law in other respects. The basis of the judgment is that it would be illegal to grant a license authorizing discrimination in [illegible]

It is a fact that a very large proportion of gift packages do not reach their destination until several days after Christmas.

It is because almost everyone puts off sending gifts until the last few days.

The mails and express companies are so overrun with business during these few days that it is impossible to handle it.

So why not buy your gifts for sending at once and get them off in time to miss the Christmas blockade that is sure to come?

J. F. AHERN REMOVED

OUSTED FROM PRESIDENCY OF BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN.

Condition of Neglect Permitted by Official Cause of Action on Part of Governor Hughes.

ALBANY, Dec. 9.—Governor Hughes tonight ousted the president of the borough of Manhattan, New York City. The condition of municipal affairs by James Ahern, president of the borough of Manhattan, brought to the attention of the governor by the citizens' union, which charges Mayor Gaynor with neglect of duty.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—News of the removal of President James F. Ahern of the Borough of Manhattan by Governor Hughes came as a surprise to Ahern's friends. Ahern himself could not be seen. It was said in political circles that William Ellison, District Attorney, is expected to succeed Ahern and probably will be chosen as president by the board of aldermen.

President M. Ahern of the City Club, who brought the charges, said:

"The removal of President Ahern will have an important bearing not only in this city but elsewhere.

"The decision of the governor shows that a group of citizens, with a reformer end, who will make charges against an official who neglects his official duty, can get action in the best way, and with complete results."

John F. Ahern was one of the old Croker guard of politicians. For many years he was a Tammany leader in the 21st ward, and his popularity there has never diminished. He toward came in the nature of a grand dozen years in the New York state senate, and since then he has been twice elected president of the borough of Manhattan.

Ahern today continues prominent in the councils of Tammany Hall, and is one of the steadfast lieutenants of Leader Charles F. Murphy. He is about 50 years old and is considered moderately wealthy.

What Press Agents Say

"THE BLUE MOON."

Clara Palmer the engaging little comedienne who is James T. Powers' principal support in the production of "The Blue Moon" which comes to the Opera House next Friday evening is an actress, and an artist, in every sense of the word. The sale of seats will commence tomorrow morning.

Unlike most musical comediennes Miss Palmer has given the character that she is portraying deep study. In most cases actresses in musical parts simply strive for effect, but not so with Miss Palmer. This little lady has taken the part of Millie and thoroughly dissected the same, with a result that every move, every intonation and every fact in her entire performance has been carefully thought out and nothing is done without a sufficient reason for the same. The late Joseph Jefferson also worked on this plan and it was he who, 19 years ago, told Miss Palmer that to succeed on the stage nothing must be done in a haphazard manner.

Miss Palmer's "Millie" is a nice, clean, intelligent little English maid, who is employed by a young lady visiting India. Millie has high ideals and is a bit sentimental with a decided fondness for poetry. It is this fact that brings her and the part Mr. Powers is portraying together. Millie's ideal of a man is that he must be a soldier, a hero and fond of poetry. Mr. Powers' part is a soldier, he contrives a series of happenings that establish him as a hero and, of course, the poetry is easily arranged. Millie is much in love with the young English soldier, but with a girl's usual contrariness she hesitates in acknowledging it. But when she sees her soldier boy with other girls, just enough jealousy is exhibited to make her acknowledge her fondness. Those different emotions are artistically conveyed to the audience by Miss Palmer and even in her gait, her gestures and movements are all made for some decisive reason. In her dances every movement is made for some express purpose and all in all her entire performance simply leaves with a thoroughness of thought and character building that is most refreshing.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 9.—Twelve bodies have been taken from the mines tonight, bringing the total number recovered up to 81. Conditions around the mines tonight are worse than at any time since the explosion. They are so bad, in fact, that the crowds have dispersed and only a few stragglers are now keeping the gruesome vigil. Milder temperature today resulted in a thaw, which converted the soil near the entrance into a sticky, muddy mortar, and soon after darkness fell rain set in and has been almost incessant ever since. The mud is now almost knee deep in places. The rain has also interrupted the makeshift telephone and telegraph communication between the mines, this city and the outside world.

BREWER FAVORS CLOSING LAW

Adolphus Busch Would Lock Saloons Sunday Morning to Allow Opportunity to Attend Church.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9.—Adolphus Busch, the millionaire brewer of St. Louis, was quoted in an interview here today as saying he favored local option and partial Sunday closing.

Mr. Busch, with his wife and a party of friends, passed through Kansas City today in his special car on their way to Pasadena, Cal., where the brewer has a winter home.

"I am in favor of local option," said Mr. Busch, in reply to the question of a newspaper man. "If a saloon is obnoxious to a community, let it be voted out."

"As to Sunday closing, I have a plan that should meet with universal approval. It is this: Close the saloon from midnight Saturday until 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and then let them open. That would give everyone an opportunity to go to church in the morning."

The widespread prohibition movement was viewed with some alarm by Mr. Busch. "It's spreading all over the south," said he, "and even Oklahoma will go prohibition. That cost me a million dollars."

FAMILIAR WORDS.

QUITE often during the past few weeks we have been told in the papers that there was trouble at Goldfield, or anywhere in the Nevada mining country. Everything had been going smoothly, and it looked as if but for the attempt to pay the miners in scrip, harmony and concord would have continued.

The mine owners at Goldfield have issued a statement of late which goes to show that there was not peace and harmony before the recent strike. Here is part of what they say:

Operator outrages against individual rights and property have driven the claims of some developers of the vesting in the mines, upon looting at every turn, carrying high, aside law and deeds of violence have become so unbearable that the owners must either close the mines, and then go over to the miners, make a desperate effort to gain the right to work them as we please.

We have chosen the alternative and propose to make our final struggle for the right to manage our own property.

The paragraph concludes:

Individual miners and citizens who have invoked the aegis of the union have been beaten up at will by the score and compelled to leave the camp. Citizens of the camp and merchants who have dared to protest against or even disapprove these outrages have been threatened, boycotted, beaten and even murdered. Specific instances of outrages of this character alleged to have been committed by the union miners are detailed.

The union has encouraged, protected and assisted its members in the crime of stealing ore from the mines of the district. The union has prevented every effort to stop these practices, and in every way encouraged the ore thieves.

Do those words have a familiar ring? Does anybody product something similar, only close at home, less than one week ago.

We shall be curious to see how this case is treated by the press generally. The experience of Cripple Creek would seem to indicate to the goldfielders that the best thing they can do, if they are resolved to rid the district of the domination of the Western Federation, is to adopt stringent measures. Whatever they do, if they want to avoid sending a flash of horror down the spine of the Outlook and Collier's Weekly and all such papers, they must not "deport" anybody nor start any "kangaroo" courts. Just round up the offenders, take them to the military, on an admission for bagpasse, so that they may go right back and join the army of insurrection. If there is one. But as hope does still remain that there will not be any armed insurrection—the prompt sending of troops may prevent that, just if war does come, the Nevada miners should bear in mind that if their cause fails of Eastern approval, it must be waged in entirely unlike fashion, or their part at most will of course be is only natural for the other fellows to rob and murder as they please.

Seriously, we hope the mine owners of Goldfield and the other camps in Nevada will profit by our experience in Colorado. Whatever may be said about details, the fact remains that Colorado got rid of the domination of the Western Federation effectually, and only one man of the crowd who were fighting the state was killed. The job may have been bungled as to the manner of its doing, but done it was, and it has stayed done. The mining camps of this state are as safe as the streets of our home city. There have been no strikes or lockouts, and hardly any disputes over wages. The Nevada people can do the same thing if they will.

SWEDEN'S ROYAL FAMILY.

THE new King of Sweden ascends the throne under exceptionally fortunate conditions. His father was beloved of his people, and respected throughout the world, and his memory is one to cherish and revere. Oscar himself is liked by his people, his country is at peace and is prospering; he has had a long training for the duties of his post, and seems fully equal to them. A man of nearly fifty years, he is in his prime, and in the ordinary course of things may look forward to twenty years or more of rule—to nearly thirty years more, if he lives as long as his father did.

These Swedish sovereigns are about the most successful example on record of founding a new royal family. The great grandfather of the new king was a French peasant, Jules Bernadotte, who went into the army of the revolution, rose to command through valor and merit, and finally was made a marshal by Napoleon, and then King of Sweden. He retained his throne when Napoleon fell, and his son and grandson ruled peacefully all their lives. The Swedish people took to the new family, and they took to Sweden, doing everything they could to identify themselves with the country. They even look like a Swedish family, of a high physical type, being big blond men with blue eyes and fair hair. Napoleon's empire went to smash, but some things he did still endure, and not the least of them is the founding of the royal family of Sweden.

Once in a generation or so it seems necessary to revive one old-forgotten statute in New York, and attempt to carry out a law which was passed in almost Puritan days. The present sweep is the first of its kind for a long time, and it seems to be correspondingly severe. If it should last long enough, New York might find itself a good city to live in. And the people but used to it would grit. After the people had lived to it

Sunday, they might perhaps be able to enjoy a day of rest once in seven. There is no doubt that it is a great deal better for people, physically and morally, not to go to Sunday shows or drink Sunday drinks. If public sentiment would support the authorities in carrying out the old law, it would be a good thing for all concerned. The chances are, however, that public opinion will not sanction the revival of "blue laws." It is does not, no matter what we may think of the right or wrong of the matter, the law will not be enforced.

There is really no need for the Democrats in Congress to hold a caucus for the sake of formulating a currency policy. All they have to do is to wait and see what the Republicans propose, and then denounce and oppose it. It will be necessary [illegible] possible for them to [illegible] constructive measure to propose in place of what the Republicans offer. And the chances are that they will be so long out of power and its consequent responsibility that they will not need the practice of doing something positive even to get their hands in.

Senator Hanbrough has a ready-made plan for a United States bank, to be located at Chicago, to have branches, directed [illegible] which are to be exercised by districts, and to that surely this is enough. It would be about as sensible to elect the superintendent of a mine by popular suffrage as the directors of such a bank. It would be better to go back and reenact the statute creating the first United States bank than to pass a measure like this.

It is said that one effect of the recent flurry in the money market has been to increase the supply of available labor. Last summer it was next to impossible to get enough men to harvest the crops, and doubtless much was lost in this way. Now it is said that it is easier to get help. Still, it is an ill wind that blows nobody good.

It is not settled yet whether Mr. Greenough, of Boston, will be made ambassador to Italy or not. He should have been more careful, if either case. A single mistake, with those wedges rattling in it and a dozen lawyers to the case, it might not last very long.

The opening of the Panama canal will make a difference to Colorado. It will help the camp very materially. More [illegible] means are produced, and [illegible] of better times generally.

[illegible] Chicago is the best place for Pueblo [illegible] city which has the necessary funds and enterprise and a new distributing facilities.

GRAND OPERA SALARIES.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Whether the issue is a disparity of income and supply of singers is not disclosed, but the parliament of France is to investigate the question whether the salaries of artists in the subsidized opera of Paris are not too high. Yet Paris is the city of low salaries. If opera singers are to receive a cut there, the effect of the operation must be to some extent felt in all the other cities of the world.

Schools of music, factories of travel and popular education have populated the ranks of competent singers. Each nation probably has about the same proportion of good voices per thousand it has always had. The difference is that now more of the young have opportunities of training. In the natural order of things the dazzling salary will diminish with the leveling up of vocalists to a situation in which there are a hundred competitors instead of one phenomenon.

In arranging its art budget the French parliament may forecast an early time when people can hear "grand" opera of high excellence in America at a dollar rate for the best seats. Whether "grand" opera will flourish after it ceases to be exclusive is another story.

SPORT OR A MILLION.

From the Baltimore Sun.

Swarthmore college having been offered a property worth $1,000,000 on the condition that it shall abolish intercollegiate sports, the president and managers of that institution are hesitating whether to accept the gift. The presidents of a number of institutions of learning have been consulted as to the expediency of binding Swarthmore for all time in the way suggested, and most of them think it inexpedient. The $1,000,000 is good but freedom is sweet. It seems to be assumed that the freedom to have intercollegiate sports is valuable—that parents want their sons to see and engage in such sports. Some parents take a different view, and not a few prefer an institution where "sport," as distinguished from athletics, is discouraged or is not too engrossing. It is a toss-up, in the opinion of some educators, whether Swarthmore would gain or lose students by accepting the $1,000,000. There is less difference of opinion on the point whether there will be more or less good studying done if it be accepted.

MR. BRYAN AS A BIRD.

From the New York Times.

After eleven years and more of basking in the light of publicity, and grilling in the heat of the same, Mr. Bryan confesses that he would rather be caricatured as a bird than as a gopher. The wonder is that he still cares how the caricaturists treat him.

But the bird, eagle or lark, barnyard goose or hawk, the raven or the pigeon, is a more suitable symbol of Mr. Bryan than the serpent. Bryan hovers and occasionally swoops; he roosts high, he loudly proclaims the advent of eggs, his song frequently fills the air. He never glides silently through the underbrush; he is rarely silent, and when he is he is not dangerous. He has no sting, and the ancients would have accepted him as a type of wisdom. Who has been picturing Mr. Bryan as a snake?

Let Mr. Bryan be a bird, by all means. Let him take his place among new ornithological specimens with the simply be-trousered fowl of the new gold coins, and the conversational songster on Nellie's hat. He is more birdlike than either of them. He has the gravity of the owl and the volubility of the sparrow, and presently he will be enjoying the historical immortality of the dodo.

NARCOTIC DRUGS.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Drug habits are probably far less prevalent and virulent than they are painted. Persons who are addicted to cocaine, morphine, chloral and the rest are secret in their indulgence. It is hard to measure the extent to which habits of the kind prevail. Evidence is clear that certain parasitic classes in the submerged districts of northern cities contain large numbers of victims. Negroes of similar parasitic classes in the south are worse, so far as their opportunities permit. Weak wills and debilitated bodies take eagerly to narcotics and stimulants. Yet the balance of probabilities is on the side of a belief that the habitual consumption of these drugs is confined to a small fraction of any population.

A human being cannot take cocaine or opium or chloral for long without giving unmistakable signs of the vice. In the second place, he is compelled to buy from somebody. Druggists, wholesale or retail, are careful about selling except under medical advice. There are tricks and subterfuges, of course. Slaves of habit so find out how to reach sources of [illegible] and is that great numbers of them could not be satisfied a particular drug without exciting publicity and compelling short action by the authorities. The danger is not enough, but is less than some people imagine. When they argue from the few cases they suspect to an imaginary area of evil, it is always worth while to place some dependence on the repulsions of normal humanity. People would rather be spicier than inferior and defective; they almost instinctively abandon vices the weakening effects of which are [illegible] Yet, it is not safe to believe that the drug habit does not [illegible] the main body of [illegible].

A WISER PROVINCIALISM.

From the Boston Transcript.

Professor Josiah Royce persistently asks, "Are we Americans a patriotic people?" And if this has no thought of those petty disloyalties which make laws necessary to keep our flag out of the hands of lewd advertisers. Let us hope, indeed, that relations of our citizens to the government in Washington. He, like his predecessor in the Lowell lectures, Professor Barrett Wendell, sees danger in the centralizing forces which we all feel. The danger lies because it is the inalienable rights of the people that are in jeopardy, the forces be those so vast and organization awakens into a sense of reality. Such a government seems to the citizens more like a force of nature than what it really is, himself writ large, and these forces, the trade winds of the blizzard awaken no loyalty against the increase of centralization, substituting power for loyalty. Professor Royce has work in France, he believes, has suffered from the centralizing effect of the city Paris, while France, on the other hand, has been made stronger by the development of provinces and the provincial spirit counteracted. In case of the then [illegible]. It is with pleasure we note that to [illegible] the growth of an interest in local [illegible] a wiser provincialism [illegible] the conviction that [illegible] strong enough [illegible] the council [illegible].

GOOSE EDITOR DOES A STUNT.

From the Kansas City Star's Missouri Notes.

A farmer near Osceola couldn't forgive what unduly had attacked his geese. Their legs would not support them, and several of them were given up as dead. Goose feathers are worth something, and the time to pluck a goose is when the body is still warm. So the farmer's wife got busy. One goose was nearly undressed when it wakened and began cackling indignantly. The astonished woman dropped it and it waddled out the kitchen door, followed by its suddenly revived sisters. The geese had eaten pulp from a cider press and were on an applejack spree.

Restriction or Regulation

There Is Small Justification for Restricting Immigration—The Thing to Do Is to Deflect Immigration. Emigrants Landed at South Atlantic and Gulf Ports Can Be Distributed Over an Immense Area Where They Are Eagerly Wanted.

BY JACOB H. SCHIFF.

(Copyright, 1907, "Charities" and the "Commons," New York.)

JACOB H. SCHIFF, great in banking and financial circles, is equally well known for his philanthropy. He is a trustee of the Baron de Hirsch fund, president of the Montefiore home and one of the founders of the Jewish Theological seminary and the Neighborhood settlement. He is [illegible] of the Jewish [illegible] and is [illegible] his name has not been even remotely connected in a public way, this absence of display has characterized his connection with the movement, now successfully launched in Galveston, for looking after the emigration which is being deflected to this southwestern port. Mr. Schiff is credited with suggesting the plan which, if it be successfully carried out, promises to greatly relieve, if not to solve, many of the perplexities of immigration.

Is the agitation for restriction of immigration justified? No careful student of the history of this country of its progress in every direction, no one giving proper consideration to the position it has attained among nations of the world, or to the happiness its own people enjoy, can honestly give this an affirmative answer.

Within the limits of a newspaper article it is not possible nor necessary to elaborate on the readily so well known and generally understood, to which this nation has gradually been built up from a small colony into a mighty world power, through the constant, unrestricted inflow of the surplus population of the old world. Even after all that has been said against the danger of permitting the coming of many, who, in the country of their origin, have been classed as undesirable, it will not be denied that the American people, take it as a whole, are the most law abiding and orderly people in the world.

Take our large North Atlantic seaport towns, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, where so considerable a percentage of the great multitude which has come to our shores has remained. Nothing so far has contributed so largely to the maintenance of our institutions, the morals attached, as have the toiling hands, souls, who have [illegible] to these shores, generally speaking, and who have added so largely to their working population, both skilled and unskilled. It is this immigration that has rendered possible for our merchants to compete and surpass in almost every branch of trade and commerce. The worker in the transport war, has hardly learned to understand our language, but who toils by day to earn a mere pittance does more to add to the greatness of the metropolis and to assure its supremacy, than the native-born millionaire who, [illegible] in hand in Fifth avenue and Central Park.

Why then restrict immigration? What is needed is rather a better distribution of the incoming masses than the putting up of a barrier against their coming. It cannot be denied that housing and some other conditions in New York and the North Atlantic seaport towns are not entirely what they should be, for, for, with a recession to trade and commerce, which sooner or later is likely to come, there may not result in overabundance of labor, through which quite a number who are now self-supporting may be thrown out of employment, and consequently [illegible] difficulty [illegible].

While such conditions, if they exist, can only be temporary and will pass, it is nevertheless desirable, if not imperative, that ways and means be sought, which, without interfering with the inflow and depriving the country of the benefits immigration is still certain to bring, shall so regulate the stream, that it will flow to centers where not only it is actually needed, but where, moreover, the new comers can be made happier than in the congested centers of the North Atlantic coast, and where the further addition of workers is not likely to become a disturbing factor in the economic conditions.

A movement has recently been started under Jewish auspices, to deflect immigration from Russia and Roumania to Galveston, where adequate preparation has been made to receive immigrants and upon their arrival to promptly forward them to divers points in the great American Hinterland, extending from the Alleghanies to the Dominion line, from the Mississippi to the Pacific. No difficulty is being found to find, for all who reach there, remunerative employment at numerous centers. In fact, newcomers are quite eagerly sought after, for, throughout the [illegible] with its system of railroads extending in every direction, like the five fingers of the hand, is admirably situated for rapid [illegible] and distribution. New Orleans, Mobile and some of the South Atlantic ports could no doubt be utilized to advantage for the further extension of the movement, which has for its purpose a deflection of the stream of immigration from the North Atlantic ports and a distribution of the newcomers over the large, vacant area, where there is room alone, better and more room for them, the wants of which are equally manifold, and where they would be much better satisfied than they are likely to be in the overcrowded tenements of New York and other great coast towns.

It has been claimed that, to make a movement as here outlined, absolutely successful, it will be necessary to establish through legislation something like a port limitation, restricting the number which shall be permitted to enter each year through New York and other North Atlantic ports.

It is perhaps not even desirable that such a restriction be imposed, but ways and means can no doubt be found to make an entirely effective regulation of immigration which shall tend, and to restrict, but to deal the inflow into channels which will continue to result in the greatest good to the greatest number.

A "LITERARY" VIEW OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

Canada has a new periodical which hopes to rank with the best British quarterlies. It is called The University Magazine and is edited by a committee for McGill university, Toronto university, and Queen's. The purpose of the magazine is "to express an educated opinion upon questions immediately concerning Canada and to treat freely in a literary way all matters which have to do with politics, education, philosophy, science and art."

The numbers of the magazine that have already won the right justify, on the whole, Canada's pride in it and the praise which American and English reviewers have bestowed upon it. But an article in the current issue on "The American Newspaper" leads us to think that the editors sulfited better than they knew in making their distinction between questions "immediately concerning Canada," upon which this educated opinion" is to be welcomed, and all other matters, which are to be treated "freely in a literary way."

The article referred to is certainly a fine instance of "free" (and easy) treatment in a "literary" rather than in a scientific and serious way. Here are a few gems: "It is a singular fact that the makers of American newspapers have not yet discovered that people do not read them; they only buy them." "It is now almost impossible for a man to read his paper at the breakfast table, filled as it is with loathsome details of calamity and coughs and running sores." "For long as it is understood generally that the American newspapers are not especially concerned with the truth no great harm is done. But simple-minded foreigners have not made that discovery." "The principal reading in the United States is advertisements, and the public earnestness has become so belittled that it can only hear a shriek."

Toward the end the writer tells us that "the American press stands second in the world for truthfulness," being "excelled only by the press of England." This qualification reduces to nonsense the previous general statement that "the American newspapers are not especially concerned with the truth." If the writer had been required to express "educated opinion" he would have said at once that American newspapers as a rule are the most truthful in the world, not to mention England. That would have stated his opinion (which may or may not be sound), but it would have [illegible] it in a fine and literary way. Another misplaced remark in the article shows that the writer was really dealing with a certain type of American newspapers, yet his title and his general statements are as sweeping as they can be made. Did free and literary treatment require such looseness, misrepresentation and gross caricature?

WHERE THE PRESIDENT STANDS

His Latest Summing up of the Case Against the Trusts.

About the time of the recent panic in New York city the whole situation in which Roosevelt, Wall Street and the country found themselves became [illegible] Lindsay Denison, writing of this in Broadway Magazine for December, makes an authoritative statement of the President's position which, in the light of the recent panic, is of absorbing interest.

"The President," says the writer, "does not believe that his utterances have directly brought about the recent crisis, strictly speaking. The President believes the country is in a fundamentally prosperous condition. He deplores the fact that the small bankers in villages and county seats throughout the land have not had the spunk and [illegible] to look around them at the busy and textile farms teeming with heavy crops, producing fat stocks, at railroads overcrowded with traffic, at the busy, thug procession of eager buyers in the village stores, but that, on the other hand, these bankers look at their own community through the spectacles of Wall Street bankers. They believe, rather than evidence of their own eyes, what they are told from Wall Street by persons interested in the preservation of usurped rights and who hope to achieve their end by destruction of the present administration. And the small bankers regarding, with undue respect, the clamor of Wall Street, began drawing in their credits, refusing to extend their notes, thus throttling the markets and the productions of their own little communities. Thus has come to mind of a panic as we have had.

"The President is credited with having started a destructive movement by saying that Edward H. Harriman ought to be in jail. He has not said so—at any rate, not publicly. But he has said that the man of great wealth and responsibility, lessen for the wealth of thousands of others, who is illegally false to his trust, deserves just more than the mere burglar or pickpocket. The President has not said that all the millionaires of Wall Street are rich malefactors, but he has said that among the millionaires of Wall Street are malefactors—too many of them.

"Moreover, he believes that the man of great wealth who has acquired that wealth honestly, deserves the thanks, not to say the affection, of his fellow-citizens. Far from believing that the possession of honest wealth is an evil, the President nevertheless appreciates the temptations under which the very rich man must labor, subjected, as he is constantly, to the intoxicating atmosphere of his own riches. The President has been known to refer to the fact that he did not originate the thought, but that there is an infinitely great authority on record for some two thousand years, that it shall be harder for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven than for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle."

WILL BEGIN WORK AT ONCE

Manitou-Crystal Park Electric Line to Be Built This Winter, Says Vanatta.

Within the next two weeks, active work will begin in Manitou on the construction of the Manitou-Crystal Park electric line, J. K. Vanatta, president of the Manitou and Crystal Park Railway company, yesterday received letters from W. C. Dotterer of New York, promoter of the company in which he stated that he would be ready to begin the work shortly, and urged the publication of the Manitou franchise.

The franchise for the Manitou and Interurban railway, by which the company obtains its right of way through the town, was granted December 22, 1906, and provides that work must start within one year. This means that the company must start its construction work within the next 12 days, and this Dr. Dotterer is prepared to do. Mr. Dotterer or other representatives of the company are expected to reach the city within a few days.

The cost of the electric line will be about $500,000, and it is proposed to have it in operation for the business of the next tourist season. Negotiations are to be opened for the use of the patent incline railway owned by Colonel Louis T. Ginger of this city. The work, it is stated, can be completed within three months.

The promoters also have an option on the Hay estate at Crystal Park, and it is also the plan to take this up and to erect a hotel and convert Crystal Park into a modern and attractive summer resort.

Colorado City News

SAYS CHILD WAS KIDNAPED

Woman Tells Strange Story to Police. No Effort Being Made to Find Abductor.

According to a story told to the police of Colorado City by Mrs. Hattie Ayres, of 414 Glenn avenue, her little girl, Gertrude Estelle Ayres, four years old, was kidnaped Sunday afternoon from Barr's burro stand by an well-known man. The police have been unable to find any trace of the child or of the supposed kidnaper.

Mrs. Ayres, who lived at Los Angeles until a few months ago, is the wife of J. E. Ayres, a freight conductor who was last heard of in Tucson, Ariz. The woman tried to get a divorce from her husband at Los Angeles, but, taking no chances, the couple separated by mutual consent, the mother retaining the custody of the child. Mrs. Ayres now is that her husband in all probability is the kidnaper of his own child. Mrs. Ayres is living with Mrs. Anna M. Werkhauser, of 414 Grant avenue, by whom she is employed as a seamstress.

According to the story told by Mrs. Ayres, her little girl is company with her cousin, Josie Craig, 15 years of age, was walking from the street near Barr's burro stand when a man spoke upon a rig and asked the little girl to take a ride with him, at the same time lifting her into the buggy and driving off. This was the last seen of either and when Miss Craig returned and told her story, the police were notified. No trace of the man or the child has been found and the whole case is wrapped in mystery. The Colorado City police took little stock in the story on Sunday afternoon and if the story of the kidnaping is true, their negligence is responsible for the man's escape. Neither the Colorado Springs police nor the sheriff's office were asked to cooperate in the hunt and had this been done promptly there would have been little chance for the man to get outside the city limits.

When seen yesterday, Mrs. Ayres did not appear to be very much excited over the affair, but reiterated her story as she had told it to the police and said the suspected her husband of the act. A warrant for the arrest of J. E. Ayres was issued yesterday by Justice Faulkner, but so far as can be learned no effort is being made by the Colorado City police to locate the man.

BAINBRIDGE WILL ATTEND

His Report Will Determine El Paso Company's Course.

The supposition that the directors of the El Paso Gold Mining company intend to throw up the contract for driving the Roosevelt Deep Drainage tunnel was strengthened yesterday by the announcement by one of the directors that the principal reason for the postponement of the directors' meeting yesterday was the inability of Superintendent Bainbridge to be present. He has been summoned and will be present at the meeting which is to be held this afternoon at the company's office in the Mining Exchange building. It is understood that much will depend on his report of the present progress of the work and the hardness of the rock. Should this be unfavorable, the likelihood is that the company will abandon the contract. A full attendance of directors is expected this afternoon.

DIRECTORS MEET—An excellent showing for the month of December was made in all departments of the Y. M. C. A., as was indicated by the reports submitted to the board of directors at its meeting last night. There has been a big increase in the gymnasium enrollment and a splendid growth of the religious work.

VALUES UP TO FIVE OUNCES.

Good Grade of Ore Is Being Shipped From Doctor-Jack Pot.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 9.—Messrs. Thomson and Humphreys, who are working the Doctor-Jack Pot claim, through the Doctor-Jack Pot Company, through the opinion of Mr. [illegible], located on Raven Hill, are shipping car from two to three cars of ore a week from this claim, and the ore is giving returns of from four to five ounces in gold to the ton. Besides making this tonnage, the operators are opening up the shaft and expect within a very few weeks to be able to double the tonnage. Cars and shipping from the Little Cripple Mining [illegible] are other large from 6 to 8 cars per week. During the last month the ore shipments made by these mines averaged better than four ounces.

Scott and Alton are leasing of the 100-foot level of the Elizabeth Cooper claim of the Doctor-Jack Pot Company on Raven Hill are shipping one car of ore a week that will rank $30 in gold to the ton. They have followed the ore on the lower level for a long distance and have been making a handsome sum of money every month for over a year.

ARE MAKING A RECORD.

New Leases on Anchoria-Leland Are Shipping Good Ore.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 9. Whipp Brothers and Benton, who a few weeks ago secured a lease on the entire holdings of the Anchoria-Leland property on the northwest slope of Gold hill, are making a record, and the indications are that they will make a handsome stake from this lease. Six cars of ore were sent out last week, and the average grade has been $30 in gold to the ton. They are working on the 400 and 500-foot levels. On the place they have a body of ore three feet wide and in another it is better than five feet across. Sinking is in progress on the 600-foot level where the shaft has been opened up for a distance of 120 feet, although part of this has already been stoped out by former lessees.

POINTER PROPERTY LEASED.

Operations Will Be Started at Once by New Operators.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 9.—It is reported that the Pointer property, on the extreme west slope of Gold hill, within sight of this city, has been leased, and that operations will be started on this property at once. There has been considerable work done in this claim in the past, and there is a good shaft and a capable plant of machinery already installed. There is some ore in sight in the mine. Just who has been given the lease cannot be learned at this time.

DANGER IN ASKING ADVICE.

When you have a cough or cold do not ask some one what is good for it, as there is danger in taking some unknown preparation. Instead use Honey and Tar. It cures coughs, colds, and prevents pneumonia. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. For sale by all dealers.

A HUNDRED TONS DAILY

FINDLEY MINE HAS RESUMED OPERATIONS.

Force of 160 Men Put to Work Saturday—Will Add Much to Camp's Output.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 9.—The Findley Consolidated Gold Mining company, which has been shut down since the Golden Cycle mill fire, resumed operations Saturday morning, starting with a force of 160 men. The management [illegible] put 100 tons daily, which will add materially to the gross tonnage from the Cripple Creek district for this month.

Besides starting up the Findley properties, the Findley lease, working through the Findley on the Mountain Beauty at a depth of 1,100 feet, has resumed operations. There is a very large vein in the Mountain Beauty, varying from 15 to 20 feet across. In this shoot there is four feet of ore that will run several ounces in gold to the ton. The entire shoot, however, gives returns of $30 in gold to the ton or better.

Blocks 3 and 4 of the Mountain Beauty, which are located on the west side of the claim, have been leased for a period of two years to John Bauer of Independence. The lease is limited from surface to the 500-foot level and work will be started on these two blocks at once.

WHEAT MARKET WEAK

NUMEROUS BEARISH INFLUENCES AT WORK.

Favorable Weather for Harvesting in Argentina Depressing Factor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—The wheat market was weak for the greater part of the day. Prices rallied some [illegible] after the publication of the government report, which situated the world's wheat area in winter wheat to be [illegible] than that of last year. [illegible] bigger houses [illegible] the low point of the day. [illegible] prices from Argentina [illegible] weather there was favorable for harvesting, with the production greater than [illegible]. Liberal receipts in the interior of Canada at Winnipeg, a lack of demand from exporters, lower prices for cash wheat and a decline in corn were additional bearish factors. May opened [illegible] lower at [illegible] and [illegible] closed at [illegible].

The corn market was weak because of a decline of from 1 to [illegible] in cash corn which was cash [illegible] receipts [illegible] rivals tomorrow [illegible] estimated at [illegible]. The market closed weak and near the low point. May opened [illegible] lower, at 53⅝, sold off to 52⅞ and closed at 52.

Covering by shorts saved the oats market from a steady decline but it soon weakened along with wheat and corn. A slight rally in the price of cash grain was a depressing factor. May opened [illegible] lower, at 33⅝, sold off to 32⅞ and closed at 32.

Provisions were weak because of [illegible] heavy receipts of live hogs, [illegible] today being estimated [illegible]. At the close, May pork was [illegible] lower, at $8.90.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES

FOR THE SUPPORT OF PRICES AGAINST DEPRESSION.

Benevolent Control Being Exercised Over Stock Market by Capitalists of Large Resources.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The stock market today gave plain evidence of the operation of protective measures for the support of prices against depression. The vigor with which the market rallied from the general declines at the opening, and the determination with which prices were held up [illegible] stocks which [illegible] control by the benevolent control being exercised by capitalists of the largest resources. The fact of this support is now generally recognized among the stock exchange, with opinions very widely as to the motives guiding the movement. Optimistic observers profess to see in it nothing beyond a desire to secure an advantageous market for holdings, which large capitalists were practically forced to take on in the period of the panic to avert the most demoralization of affairs in which they were interested. The most liberal view of the favor shown towards the recovery is that it indicates a belief that the decline in prices was warranted after the utter prostration to which good foundation like current conditions and that the general price position would be helped by this readjustment.

The effectiveness of the support for the market was the more notable in view of the rather great weakness shown by a few special stocks, and which would in any unrestricted market movement, to a marked extent have had effect on the general list. This weakness of the copper stocks, [illegible] American Smelting, was [illegible] and was directly attributable to the unfavorable trade development. The [illegible] reduction in the output of copper this year in the [illegible] of some [illegible] companies, [illegible] copper companies [illegible] potential [illegible] in the [illegible] of the [illegible] reflected in the movement of these stocks. Further [illegible] [illegible] outcome of this [illegible].

The [illegible] of the Atchison [illegible] Western [illegible] expanded the spread in strength of leading stocks. For [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] general business [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Announcement

The Alta Vista Hotel Management have decided to open up several of their best rooms, which they usually close in winter, to desirable people, at a price which will be appreciated by those who desire warm, comfortable quarters. We believe that it is better to realize something from these rooms, inasmuch as the expense to us is little greater whether occupied or vacant, having our own heating and light plant. A lower proportionate rate will be made where two or more occupy same room.

Don't think you must dress, respectability goes with us at the Restaurant.

Necklaces

In our north window will be seen some examples of the newest things in necklaces, in garnet, amazonite, lorid and jet they represent the choicest of the season's offering. From the spirit shown yesterday another warning to late shoppers is timely. It will soon be too late for duplicate goods sold, and you had better secure your choice. A small deposit will hold any article till called for.

The four cardinal principles of our business.

Is not the purchase of a piano that gives universal satisfaction the the best economy for YOU?

Testimonial to Miller Piano

New York City, October 18, 1907.

I have had a Miller Piano in my home for some years, and have found the truest satisfaction in its reliable and solid qualities. It is more, however, than a GOOD piano. Its tone qualities to me are almost like the sweetness of the human voice and of human life itself. I do not know of any instrument that speaks to me—that is to my nature and need quite as clearly and strongly as the Miller Piano. It is a true companion for a man's best hours, and for his finest aspirations.
